Please provide a concise, yet comprehensive, statement that explains the reasons for the deletion.

This course is being deleted in order to streamline the resources within the Illustration Minor Program. The deletion of this course will also bring the realignment of program curriculum mapping objectives. DES 4363 Sequential Illustration and Environmental Illustration courses were stacked in order to meet student enrollment. Both Sequential Illustration and the newly proposed course DES 4XX3 Illustration for Children’s Books are upper division narrative illustration studios. In a meeting with the School of Design Director and the Illustration Program Division Head, the objectives of the two courses were reviewed at the conclusion of the academic year 18/19. The learning objectives and measured student outcomes of both were examined and the decision to replace Sequential Illustration with Illustration for Children’s books was deemed to be more in alignment as an Illustration elective for the Minor Program.
