As a result of this course, you should:

1. Know terminology, specific facts, methodology in psychology, and the theories behind current research in the field;
2. Comprehend the findings of current research in the field and their implications;
3. Apply previously learned information to the content of this course;
4. Analyze current research in the field, such that the research paradigms can be identified and inferences can be drawn;
5. Synthesize knowledge, by integrating concepts from previous courses with newly learned information to produce new and/or original thoughts; and
6. Evaluate material and research for a given purpose, based on knowledge, personal values, and opinion.

Course Detail Information:

14. Contact Hours (per week)

   - Lecture hours (in class) [3]
   - Lab hours (also studios)
   - Other (outside activities)

15. Repeatable course.

   - Number of times this course can be taken for credit: [1]

16. Schedule type: (select one only)

   - Activity P.E. (A)
   - Lab only (B)
   - Lecture/Lab (C)
   - Lecture only (L)
   - Recitation/Lab (R)
   - Student Teaching (STU)
   - Studio Art/Design (XSU)

17. List existing course(s) for which this course will be a prerequisite. Adding a "new course" as a prerequisite to an existing course will likely cause enrollment problems. (Please submit a prerequisite change form for each course for which this course will serve as a prerequisite.)

   - None

18. What resources, technology or equipment must be acquired to teach this course? List items, which must be purchased and estimate cost. (Be specific, e.g., technology software, equipment, computer lab; etc.)

   - None; current resources are adequate

19. The UCO Library has the required library resources available for this new course?

   - Yes [X]  No

   According to Kirsten Davis (February 28, 2020; see attached), "given that these are essentially rearrangements of existing programs/classes, things should be fine from a resources
If no, what additional library resources must be acquired for this new course? List items which must be purchased and estimated cost. (Be specific, e.g., books, magazines, journals, etc.)

Not applicable/None needed

20. Names of current faculty qualified to teach this course.
   Thomas Hancock, Rob Doan, Nora Gayzur, Janelle Grellner, Mark Hamlin, Tephillah Jeyaraj-Powell, Caleb Lack, Alicia Limke-McLean, Jaclyn Maass, Megan Purdum, Adam Randell, Gabriel Rupp, Scott Singleton, Mickie Vanhoy, and Lorry Youll

21. Additional faculty (adjunct or full-time) required and specific competencies required to teach this course:
   No additional faculty are needed at this time. A background in an area of applied psychology would be needed to teach the course.

22. How will this course be staffed and equipped? Identify the additional costs associated with this new course. If no costs, explain why not.
   This course will be part of the regular rotation of courses offered in the major and will not require any new staff or equipment to be offered; that is, faculty loads will be adjusted to accommodate changes in the curriculum (specifically, the number of core required classes will decrease to allow to the addition of elective courses in the curriculum). As such, the funds to support this course will come from an internal reallocation of the departmental budget.

23. Identify the source(s) of funds for any additional costs for the new course. i.e. internal reallocations, special fees from students, etc. If you plan to propose special fees be assessed for this course, be aware there is a separate approval process for special fees.

25. Using State Regents' definition of liberal arts and sciences (quoted below), characterize the course as follows:

   X Liberal arts and sciences
   Non-liberal arts and sciences

"The liberal arts and sciences are defined as those traditional fields of study in the humanities; social and behavioral sciences; communications; natural and life sciences; mathematics; and the history, literature, and theory of fine arts (music, art, drama, dance). Courses in these fields whose primary purpose is directed toward specific occupational or professional objectives, or courses in the arts which rely substantially on studio or performance work are not considered to be liberal arts and sciences for the purpose of this policy. Courses required for the General Educational Program are not necessarily synonymous or mutually exclusive with the liberal arts and sciences." State Regents Policy and Procedures, Chapter 2, Section 5, "Degree Requirements" part 1, (2). P. II-2-86
26. Please provide a concise, yet comprehensive, statement that explains the reasons for requesting the new course. Include documentation or assessment information supporting the specific request (if possible). Indicate the expected source of student enrollment (majors, minors, programs etc.)

In the department's Self-Study for Continuous Improvement (SSCI), external reviewers suggested (a) a greater breadth of courses be offered, (b) a greater depth of courses be offered, and (c) courses devoted to multicultural and diversity issues. This course will help meet these suggestions. Moreover, according to national data, this is a typical specialty course in the area of psychology.

27. Which of the six transformative learning tenets does this course incorporate? (check all that apply or only those that apply) This question was a directive from the Provost and is used for informational purposes.

- Discipline Knowledge
- Leadership
- Research, Scholarly and Creative Activities
- Service Learning and Civic Engagement
- Global and Cultural Competencies
- Health and Wellness

28. Clearly explain how the characteristics of this course meet or exceed those outlined in Course Level Characteristics. (Copy and paste table from “Course Level Characteristics” document for the appropriate course level of proposed course.
